

Benefits of work experience

- Promotes your organisation as a good employer in your community.
- Engage, inspire, and inform young people about working life in healthcare.
- Positive work experience placements can help future employees make informed career choices.
- Supports members of the community, with the opportunity to practice work-related skills in preparation for employment.
- Allows staff to develop new skills in supervision and mentoring as part of their continuing professional development.
- It can help the transition into T levels, apprenticeships, and higher education. Read more about how work placements can mark the beginning of an NHS career.
- Supports the implementation of the Government's careers strategy to educate young people on the range of opportunities available in the NHS, learn new skills and get first-hand experiences in the workplace.