

Placing students first at United Lincolnshire Hospitals NHS

This video shows the importance of student experience in the work experience journey. Ensuring the work experience offer aligns with the students' needs and expectation can increase uptake and spark an interest in a career in the NHS. A standardised process for matching students with work experience is the fairest way of ensuring parity of access for students, rather than allowing them to rely on their own knowledge or contacts. The trust facilitates this through a locally developed work experience platform, with a standard application form, widening participation and reducing administrative burden.
